

WATER BOND CASE HEARD IN APRIL

Oklahoma Supreme Court to Finally Decide on Local Question.

Hearing by the Oklahoma supreme court of the appeal of the legal fight made by Tate Brady against the issuance by the city of the water bonds voted in Tulsa July 19, will not come before the court until April, the case having been set yesterday for that term.

Brady brought an action against the city commissioners, the mayor and other officials, and by injunction proceedings sought to have the election held invalid on technical grounds. Judge Owen Owen, in district court, before whom the hearing took place, ruled against Brady, and the case was then appealed to the supreme court. At the hearing on the permanent injunction, counsel for Brady set out several technical grounds upon which the claim of illegality was based, but the court, after hearing arguments, ruled against the plaintiff.

Water bonds voted in this city totaling $5,000,000, are for the purpose of bringing water from Spavinaw creek, from a point 73 miles northeast of the city and carrying this water through the city distributing system as at present in use. According to competent engineers, this project is not only feasible, but offers the city a close and at the same time, adequate supply of pure water for this city.
